

The funeral, despite the police surveillance, was attended by many people and constituted an occasion to protest against the dictatorship.